THE FORMAT

Based on a 6 episode season, the first five episodes are the qualifiers, with the winner of each guaranteeing their place in the Grand Final.

In each round of the competition the robots will engage in a timed battle, with the winners decided by either 'knockout' or, if the time runs out with no clear winner, a 'judge's decision' made by a panel of three expert judges. Each episode of Robot Wars has three stages:

1) Group Battles:

There are two group battles, lasting up to three minutes, with four robots in each battle. The winning two robots from each will progress to the next stage of the competition

2) Head-to-Head:

The top two robots from each group battle go through to head-to-head battles, where all four robots will fight each other once in battles lasting up to three minutes.

3) Heat Final

The two robots with the most points in the head-to-head fights will battle each other one last time to determine the episode's winner and secure their place in the Grand Final.

The Grand Final (Episode 6) features the winners of the previous five episodes – alongside one runner-up chosen by the three judges – returning to battle for the coveted trophy.
